Q: array of Arrays, printing a specific element in a function I am new to the programming world and I don't know why I can't figure out why this question is giving me an error.

I am trying to make a function where it prints to the screen in a message box, just the specified element that I choose for that specific array in the function. The error: Microsoft VBScript compilation error '800a0291' Array not supported. Dim qtyArray()
qtyArray(0) = 0 qtyArray(1) = 20
qtyArray(2) = 5 Function
qtyCallback(qty) MsgBox qtyArray(2) End Function A: Your issue is that qtyArray is an array of the size qtyArray(0) = 0. That is, you have declared a 2D array that is empty. (There is another mistake; you cannot really have a 0 as the first index of a 2D array. I presume that was just a typo in the original post.) Replace that declaration with a 1D array like so:

Dim qtyArray() qtyArray = Array(0,20,5) Now you can use qtyArray(1) to access that element
of the array. {

list_del_rcu(&task->task_list);

kfree(task); } } static void

bch_cancel_work(struct
work_struct *work) { struct
backing_dev_info *bdi; struct

bch_ratelimit rr; bdi =
